Dear [REDACTED],

Freedom of Information Request – FOI2025/00409

We are writing in response to your email received by Post Office Limited ("Post Office") on 14 June, which has been dealt with under the terms of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 ("FOIA").

In your email, you have requested the information shown verbatim in bold below:

I don't know if I should be asking you or Royal Mail, but what is the expiry date for Queen Elizabeth II stamps (if any) and how should they be exchanged? While I did exchange most of my non-barcoded stamps, I do still have a few odd ones (mostly low-value changemaker stamps).

While I don't have any stamps with odd halfpence, what is the procedure for either using or exchanging such stamps and can odd halfpennies still be added together?

We can confirm we do not hold the information you have requested. Post Office separated from Royal Mail Group ("Royal Mail") on 01 April 2012; therefore, we do not have access to information held by Royal Mail, including the requested information.

Whilst Royal Mail are not subject to the FOIA, you may wish to contact them to see if they hold any of the requested information. You could try Customer Services on 08457 740 740 or online at <https://personal.help.royalmail.com/app/webforms/contact/c/310>.

If you are dissatisfied with the handling of this response, you do have a right to request an internal review. You can do this by writing to the address above within 40 working days of receipt of this response stating your reasons for your internal review request or alternatively, by emailing information.rights@postoffice.co.uk.

If, having requested an internal review by Post Office, you are still not satisfied with our response you also have a right of appeal to the Information Commissioner at:
